

JOIN THE NETWORK

The California Telehealth Network (CTN), is a statewide broadband partnership for telehealth. Initially funded through the FCC's Rural Health Care Pilot Program (RHCPP), CTN is using broadband technology to improve access to acute, primary and preventive health care in rural and medically underserved communities in California.

As a CTN member, eligible clinics and hospitals in rural and medically underserved areas receive FCC subsidized high speed broadband, which in turn will provide increased access to clinical specialties and the ability to participate in a variety of other services designed to improve access to health care, medical training, education and operational efficiencies. Services include:

- Specialty medical care by clinicians at distant sites
- Emergency room and intensive care consultation
- Access to telehealth program development and technical assistance services
- Assistance in matching patient sites with available telehealth providers
- Access to national health care databases and disease registries
- High speed, medical grade quality broadband connections from 1.5 mbps to 45 mbps
- Video-interpreter services, telepharmacy, disaster response
- Access to the Public Internet through the Corporation for Education Network Initiatives in California (CENIC)
- HIPAA compliant security with 24/7 network monitoring
- Access to CME services and educational programming designed for clinical staff
- Webinars and training services
- Bridge services to connect multiple locations together for meetings, educational programming and collaboration.
